REFERENCE TO THE CONTEXT:

These lines have been taken from the poem "The Solitary Reaper" written by William Wordsworth. In this poem, the poet describes a girl who is working lonely in the field and also she is singing a melodious song. The poet is deeply impressed by her song and he remembers the melody of the song after he had left the place where she was singing. The poet being a poet of nature is deeply impressed by the natural melodious effect of the song.

EXPLANATION:

In these lines, the poet tells us that the girl is cutting the crops with sickle in bent motion. The poet further describes that he listens to the song of the girl without motion and he was standing still. As he mounted up the hill, he was so impressed by the melodious song of the girl that it goes straight to his heart. He remembers the song of the girl long after he had left the place where the girl was singing the melancholy song.

ANSWER:

The Prophet (S.A.W) is the last prophet of the chain of the prophethood, that's why Holy Prophet (S.A.W) equate himself with the last brick of otherwise complete house of the prophethood.

Allah stops the revelation of the prophets on Prophet (S.A.W).

The chain that was started from Hazrat Adam (A.S) stops on Hazrat Muhammad (S.A.W).

In a hadith, Prophet (S.A.W) said that;

"I am the last Prophet,

no prophet is after me."

ANSWER:

The writer means that when we look at the stars we look at history because the stars are formed by Allah long ago, about a billion years ago. Light from these stars reaches us after a long period of time. The beam of today's light from the stars is observed that is the same present long ago. So when we look at the stars we look at the history.

LESSON FROM THE LAST LEAF:

The lesson we get from the last leaf is that of sacrifice. We should sacrifice our life for the well-being of other just like the old Behrman from the story. He painted a fresh and green leaf, on the wall outside the Johnsy's window, in a stormy weather in order to save her life and himself get pneumonia and die.

Another lesson we get from the story is that Friendship can be of great help in time of crisis. Sue take alot of care of Johnsy during her disease and tried every single way to treat her from her illness.

SUMMARY OF LESSON FROM BATTLE OF UHUD:

The battle of Uhud was the fury, wrath, vengeance and ignominy of the battle of Badr. Many famous Quraish leaders were killed during that battle. So the infidels want to take revenge from Muslims. The infidels have a huge army of skillful warriors. They were thumping tambourines and have a group of women under the direction of Hinda who were singing enthusiastic war ballad.

On the other hand, Muslims' army was not huge as the Quraish. So Hazrat Muhammad adopt a defensive strategy and decide to face the enemy outside Madina in an open field. At the time when Muslim reaches the battle field, 300 hypocrite separates from the Muslim army.

Hazrat Muhammad (S.A.W) set a group of archers on the mountain behind the battle field and told them that don't come down whatever the situation is.

When the battle started, the Muslims were heavy on the enemy and Muslims were about to win but when archers saw this, they came down to collect the Ma-e-ghanimat. The other archers told them not to go down but they don't listen. Only 10 archers were left on the mountain.

The infidels were running from the battlefield and when Khalid bin Waleed saw, at that time he was not a muslim, the archers coming down and that few archers were left behind he attacked on them and attack on muslims.

The muslims began to lose the battle. The rumor of Holy Prophet (S.A.W) death was spread in the battlefield but he was badly injured and was defended by Hazrat Ali and the ansars.

The battle that could have been won by the muslims ended up like this. From this battle, we get lesson of the obedience of Prophet. Every muslim should obey the teachings of Prophet (S.A.W) in every field of life and should never think of disobeying him.

ESSAY:

Gender equality means equal rights to both male and female.

Gender equality has a great impact on the National progress.

If only males are given the rights of proper education and are provided with all the opportunities then only they will be succeeded in life. The female that are not given the rights and are not not provided with the opportunities then they will not succeed in life and will only be confined to their houses. Their talent will be wasted and also it will greatly effect the national progress of the country.

The female population in the world is about 50%. and if they don't take part in progress of their countries, they will be greatly impacted.

Those countries in which the females are suppressed never ever became successful. If females and males are provided with the same opportunities and rights and both goes to the different fields such as medical, engineering, technology etc, then these fields will touch the peaks of success and when these fields grows, the country also grows.

Gender equality has a great effect on the economy of the country. In those countries, the economy does not make any progress where there is gender inequality, because in those countries males are only working in all the fields and don't make any progress and as a result the economy of the country tatter. Gender inequality is the root for the poor economy.

Gender equality is very important for the national progress of a country, without the gender equality there will be no progress.

Equal rights in education, health etc is really very important, by providing equal rights to both male and female, gender equality can be achieved and when it is achieved the national progress of the country also occur. In short, gender equality is the key to the national progress.
